The musicians of your Oregon Symphony are heard by tens of millions of people around the world through global broadcasts and Grammy nominated recordings. But they aren’t just remarkable artists – they’re also your neighbors, friends, and a part of what makes our region so special.

Each year, in addition to their extraordinary performances onstage, Oregon Symphony musicians help to lead award-winning education and community programs. They teach in schools, work with other nonprofit arts groups, and volunteer throughout the state. They bring hope and inspiration to children and adults who otherwise wouldn’t have access to live music.

Your Oregon Symphony musicians are pillars of our community. As proud of them as we are, they are proud to call Portland home.

World-class musicians. Local pride.

The commitment this community always shows to the art form and to us feels so personal. So connected.

The Power of Memories: Ravil and More with the Oregon Symphony

Nov 19, 20 & 21, 2022

An emotional journey rife with brilliant melody, Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony is a triumphant reflection on the composer's struggle with fate. Also, Nordic splendor takes center stage in Sibelius' patriotic Finlandia and the US premiere of Erkki-Sven Tüür's latest violin concerto performed by Vadim Gluzman, "one of today's top violinists" (Washington Post).

Music of [In]Tolerance: from Mendelssohn to Wagner

Mar 11, 12 & 13, 2023

Ideas of oppression and resilience are woven throughout Wagner's rarely heard Rienzi Overture and Mendelssohn's monumental "Reformation" Symphony, making it the perfect vehicle for the dynamic pianist Vadim Gluzman. Shostakovich's brooding, deeply personal Tenth Symphony pursues great extremes in emotion and orchestral color, from wistful wind solos to menacing marches.

Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony

Jan 28, 29 & 30, 2023

Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony

May 17, 18 & 19, 2023

Steeped in jazz, blues, and ragtime, Gershwin's Concerto in F is a quintessentially American take on the classical concerto, making it the perfect vehicle for the dynamic pianist Aaron Diehl. Shostakovich's brooding, deeply personal Tenth Symphony pursues great extremes in emotion and orchestral color, from wistful wind solos to menacing marches.

Steaded in jazz, blues, and ragtime, Gershwin's Concerto in F is a quintessentially American take on the classical concerto, making it the perfect vehicle for the dynamic pianist Aaron Diehl. Shostakovich's brooding, deeply personal Tenth Symphony pursues great extremes in emotion and orchestral color, from wistful wind solos to menacing marches.

Our season concludes with Mahler's Fifth Symphony, a work of vast emotional scope that moves from grief to jubilation and includes the composer's famous Adagietto — a love song to his future wife, Alma, tenderly scored for strings and harp. Principal Flute Martha Long brings sparkling grace to Mozart's playful Flute Concerto in G Major.
In a program inspired by the dynamism of dance, Ravel’s sensuous Boléro offers a kaleidoscope of orchestral color, ending with a fiendish intensity sure to bring audiences to their feet. Also, Grammy Award-winning violinist Augustin Hadelich performs Sarasate’s Dvě-selected movements, a work of youthful abandon and technical fireworks. Framing the program are Tchaikovsky’s Swan Lake Suite, the famous slithery flowers and melodic themes. Opening the program is Hindemith’s Mathis der Maler Symphony, to the music that inspired Beethoven’s “Eroica” Symphony. And Creative Chair Gabriel Kahane’s The Right to Be Forgotten explores our digital world, questioning ideas of convenience, privacy, free will, and democracy in the era of the internet.

Renowned pianist Kirill Gerstein brings his “intelligent and virtuosic music-making” (Observer) to Rachmaninoff’s Second Piano Concerto, a work of soulful melodies and technical fireworks. Framing the program are Tania León’s Stride, an homage to the profound legacy of Susan B. Anthony, and Prokofiev’s nostalgic Seventh Symphony.

With the ferocious roar of its unforgettable opening, Carl Orff’s exhilarating Carmina Burana has become a cultural phenomenon, arresting audiences with its bawdy celebration of life, love, and renewal. Opening the program is Hindemith’s Mathis der Maler Symphony, to the music that inspired Beethoven’s “Eroica” Symphony. And Creative Chair Gabriel Kahane’s The Right to Be Forgotten explores our digital world, questioning ideas of convenience, privacy, free will, and democracy in the era of the internet.

Music Director David Danzmayr leads Mahler’s sunny Fourth Symphony, with its curious sleigh bells, puckish woodwinds, and a moving finale that imagines a child’s awe-inspiring vision of Heaven. Swedish soprano Camilla Tilling enchants with the “purity of her sound” (Gramophone) in both the Mahler and Osvaldo Golijov’s tender, tragic Three Songs.

A triumph of orchestration, Holst's The Planets conjures vivid portrayals of the mythological deities associated with our solar system, from Mars’ drums of war to Neptune’s ethereal mysticism. Plus, Xavier Foley brings consummate versatility to the stage, performing his For Justice and Peace, a powerful meditation on the legacy of slavery in the US.

LIVE STREAMING: SUNDAYS, 2 PM

Music Director Laureate Carlos Kalmar leads a program exploring the invincibility of the human spirit. Strauss’s songs of farewell, with their radiant lyricism, offer hope and solace in the autumn of life, while Nielsen’s Fourth Symphony looks to transcend the anguish of World War I, culminating in a spectacular duel for two timpanists.

A masterwork of rich melody and tender romanticism, Rachmaninoff's Second Symphony contains some of the composer's most introspective, heartfelt music. Martin Ahlén conducts this audience favorite along with Bernstein's Novello Concerto, presented alongside the composer's Second Symphony — two early works that German master honoring his revolutionary orchestral style. Each season, the Oregon Symphony reaches far beyond the concert hall, engaging and empowering tens of thousands of children and adults with free music programs. Our musicians are in schools, retirement centers, hospitals, libraries, correctional facilities and more, sharing music in-person and virtually to enrich lives throughout our community and around the world. These programs are as vital to our mission as the concerts we present onstage, and they are exclusively funded by generous donors like you. Your gift helps us bring inspiring music to more community members, particularly those who are most in need.
